more than one active company, you can double the wasted time. And if you have a few years of historical data, you can plan on losing most of your day. Worst of all, you have to baby-sit you computer throughout the tedious process of selecting the company and module, answering the pre-close option grid questions, waiting for the process to complete, and then repeating it six or more times.

AutoClose automates the time-consuming task of period and year-end closing. From a checklist, simply select the companies and modules that you want to close. Next, familiar option grids prompt you for each company/application that you intend to close, and the information you enter for each option grid is saved for later use. When you have finished answering all of the option grid questions, you'll be asked if you are ready to begin the automated closing process. Just select [OK] and walk away from your computer! Each company/application that you selected will be closed "automagically."

Windows 2000 Server

As businesses come to rely more and more on the Internet, they have the opportunity to grow, extend their networks to partners and customers, and consider new ways to bring their products and services to market. To take advantage of these opportunities, businesses need an infrastructure that readily responds to market forces, delivers high reliability, efficient management, ease of use, and supports the latest advances in networking hardware. And to readily pursue these opportunities, businesses want to build on their existing investments in skills and systems.

Windows 2000 Server is designed to meet these needs for businesses of all sized, from small, centralized organizations to the largest distributed enterprise. Building on the strengths of Windows NT Server 4.0, Windows 2000 Server sets a new standard for how well an operating system can be integrated with standards-based directory, Web, application, network, file and print services, powerful end-to-end management and reliability, to provide the best foundation for integrating your business with the Internet.
The "Business Internet" starts here.

Specialty Products

Dominance Software is pleased to announce to you two new products designed to alleviate some time on shipping orders and adding inventory items. QuickIC and UPS Export were designed in house by Mr. Jim Byers.

The first product is the UPS Export. This dramatically reduces the normal entry time of shipping orders, significantly reduces erroneous shipments, and works with Vision Point and Pro Series.
The product adapts to your shipping software by replacing its customer database with open orders from SBT substituting the order number for the customer number. Instead of selecting customers from a list within your shipping software, you type in the order number; one unique order number, one accurate ship to address.

UPS Export exports all of your open orders to files in both Xbase and comma delimited format. You then import either file into your shipping software as the customer database.
Our second product we have designed in house is the QuickIC. This is the easiest and most reliable way to enter inventory items into SBT Pro Series accounting software. It dramatically reduces the normal entry time of adding new items. It posts all values to the general ledger automatically. And you enter only the information you really need. This significantly reduces data entry errors.
There is an hour of customization required for this product; this is when you would decide all default values to be established by you. You may also allow users to select from only valid item classes and product lines or add a check box for stocking or non stocking items.
You may have either product designed to specific needs with QuickIC and UPS Export. We are capable of designing them to suit your companies needs to perfection saving you and your company both time and money.
If you would like additional information or have questions regarding either one of these products, give us a call today.
